Tell Eames/Bradley Consultative Group what you think

09 January 2008

Many are rightly outraged by reports that the Eames/Bradley Consultative Group are considering recommending an amnesty for terrorist murderers.

You can make your views clear directly to Lord Eames by posting your observation on the group's website at <http://www.cgpn.org/your-views/?action=form> You are encouraged to do so.

Jim Allister MEP has posted the following comment:-

“If the consultative group is considering the appalling suggestions reported in the media - and there has been no denial - then you are so out of touch with the real needs and interests of innocent victims that immediate resignation would be a fitting contribution.

How anyone who cares for innocent victims could ever contemplate an amnesty for those who wantonly made them victims, is beyond comprehension. To compound the insult by legitimising the murderers as soldiers involved in a 'war', is disgusting. If this is your view Lord Eames, you and your colleagues should hang your heads in shame.

Then, to contemplate that terrorists should be employed to 'help' a revamped HET, beggars belief.

It is said the victorious get to write history, well the revisionism that underlies these proposals must be as great a fillip to the IRA as it is a slap in the face to its thousands of victims.”
