Changing for the better, together

Together: Building a United Community Strategy

Annual Update

2018/19

Northern Ireland
Executive

Foreword

I am delighted to be able to provide this report reflecting the very positive progress being made in the implementation of the Together: Building a United Community (T:BUC) Strategy. The report provides an update on the successful delivery of the headline actions as well as a range of other good relations programmes being supported across our society.

At its core, the success of the strategy is dependent on the working relationships between Government departments, statutory bodies, voluntary and community groups and the community in which the projects and programmes are being delivered.

Government departments and their statutory partners provided considerable funding and support to aid delivery during 2018/19. In addition, the contribution, commitment and participation of the voluntary and community groups, and the local community, has been critical to the successful delivery of the strategy. I have seen first-hand how their efforts and commitment have made real and positive change happen. This report attempts to reflect this and how their work has helped to bring about the positive change in community relations articulated through the T:BUC Strategy at both a local and societal level.

This report cannot capture all of the activities that have been delivered, given the scale of delivery. However, we are keen to see your videos and positive stories from your projects and programmes and we will continue to share these to reflect the positive change that is taking place.

I want to thank everyone who has participated in all of the T:BUC projects and programmes and who have supported the delivery of the strategy- this success could not have been achieved without you. This report marks year five of the T:BUC strategy's implementation and while there has been significant progress, there is much more to be done. To that end it is incumbent on all of us to continue to work constructively together to help build the united, shared and reconciled community that we want to live in.

T:BUC Camps Programme

Programme summary

The T:BUC Camps Programme provides opportunities for young people aged 11 to 19 across Northern Ireland to come together to build positive relationships across divided parts of our community. The camps challenge historic positions, encourage debate and discussion and provide a way for young people to get to know each other, try new experiences, have fun and help to build longer term relationships. Camps are delivered on a cross- community basis.

Camps in the Community

As well as the Camps themselves we have progressed the Camps in the Community element and brought social action to the fore, improving the visibility of the young people in local communities, giving back to those communities through social action projects.

In 2018/19 two Camps in the Community events were successfully delivered in Lisnaskea and Newcastle. Their purpose was to bring young people from different projects together to participate further in good relations work, look at issues affecting young people and design social action projects to be delivered in their own local communities.

Videos of these events can be found at:

And on our social media feeds:

Twelve social action projects were completed in areas such as Belfast, Newcastle and Newtownhamilton. These included projects such as a beach clean-up, a fund raising event for a local cause and a Christmas event at an elderly care home. Check out the video at:

Peace4Youth Programme

Programme summary

Peace4Youth is aligned with the vision and objectives of United Youth as set out in the T:BUC Strategy. The programme focuses on supporting participants to develop capabilities in the areas of personal development, good relations and citizenship, ultimately enhancing their employability and improving their life chances.

The programme targets young people aged between 14-24 years old, who are disadvantaged, excluded or marginalized, have deep social and emotional needs, and are at risk of becoming involved in anti-social behavior, violence or paramilitary activity. Many of these young people will not be in education, training or employment. At the end of April 2019, over 2,700 young people had participated on the programme.

Evaluation

Queen's University was appointed as impact evaluator for the programme, and their first report (on Phase 1 of the programme) was received in October 2018.

The report was highly positive with the majority of indicators under the main outcome areas (good relations, personal development and citizenship) showing clear progression for young people. Almost 80% of the young people surveyed indicated they were going to progress to education, training, employment or voluntary/community engagement, and almost 90% had gained a qualification in at least one area.

A further two reports are due in 2020 and 2022.

Peace4Youth

Peace4Youth is built on 12 essential design features and the programme has a strong focus on engaging, non-formal learning approaches delivered via a professionally-founded youth work approach.

"I am much more confident with myself I am sad for it to end these past few months have been the best of my life!"

"I feel empowered to create change in my community that i never thought I would have the confidence to do."

Shared Housing Programme

Programme summary

The aim of the Shared Housing Programme is to create communities of 'good neighbours' and ensure that there is greater choice open to those who wish to live in a mixed area.

Each Scheme is supported by an Advisory Group made up of local Community and Voluntary Groups, local political reps and Good Relations Officers from the Housing Executive and local Councils. The Groups also include representatives from Policing and Community Safety Partnerships and other relevant statutory bodies.

The Advisory Groups are key to informing the development of the shared schemes' five year Good Relations Plans which include 'bonding' programmes to support the new incoming residents, and 'bridging' programmes to promote mixing between the new residents and residents from surrounding communities, many of which are single identity communities.

Social Change Programme

The Social Change Programme is a collaboration between the Radius and Apex Housing Associations and their tenants from the Global Crescent and Ballynafoy Close shared neighbourhoods.

The eight-week programme (facilitated by Amplify NI) commenced in January 2019, and it provided tenants with the opportunity to identify key issues that matter to them. The tenants will now be supported to turn their ideas into actions through facilitated workshops and good practice visits. The programme included community mapping, a 'co-creation' workshop and the development of an impact plan.

The programme outcomes will support tenants in taking ownership of their neighbourhood and developing their confidence.

Uniting Communities Programme

Programme summary

The Uniting Communities Programme uses sport, physical, and creative activity to break down divisions in society and deliver and embed key good relations messages with an emphasis on tackling sectarianism, racism and promoting equality of opportunity.

In 2018/19 this good relations programme has engaged 535 young people through the medium of sports, physical & creative activity with a strong youth leadership aspect.

The programme had 54 young leaders in training during the course of 2018/19 in Erne East, Colin & Eastside, and Ardoyne & Ballysillan areas.

Networking events

Delivery partners working across the Programme gathered together to share information and identify areas for collaboration to further support our young people.

A successful event at Jungle NI, Magherafelt, was delivered on 16 February 2019 providing young leaders with an opportunity to network with young leaders from other areas, to develop their relationships, and share learning. Activities were focused on problem solving and working together to achieve success. The event was co-designed with the young leaders.

Stakeholder engagement

Completed in two new rural locations – Ballymoney and Derg District Electoral Areas – including recruitment workshops in local schools.

Uniting Communities through sport & creativity

Young Leaders and Ambassadors Training Programmes

The Programme launched in September 2018 to deliver skills training to all young leaders. Inspirational ambassadors have also been recruited from a range of sporting, physical and creative backgrounds. Young Ambassadors have been training the young leaders in the new areas and are role models for the programme.

What is it?

The 'Together: Building a United Community' (T:BUC) Strategy, reflects the Executive's commitment to improving community relations and continuing the journey towards a more united and shared society.

What is the vision?

The T:BUC Strategy outlines a vision of a united community, based on equality of opportunity, the desirability of good relations and reconciliation – one which is strengthened by its diversity, where cultural expression is celebrated and embraced.

How do we achieve it?

At the heart of the T:BUC Strategy is a commitment to genuine and productive collaborative working between the Executive Office and other NICS Departments, central and local government, and between the public sector and the community and voluntary sector.

How do we measure success?

Success is measured against the relevant Programme for Government outcome indicators and the four key aims of the strategy itself. All of our funded programmes have a strong focus on outcomes – we want to clearly articulate what difference is being made and to see how relations have been improved. We want to identify what works and to recognise and share best practice.

Changing for the better, together

Race Equality & Good Relations

Programme summary

The Racial Equality Strategy, launched in December 2015, established a framework for action by all Government departments:

- To tackle racial inequalities;
- To eradicate racism and hate crime;
- Along with the T:BUC Strategy to promote good race relations and social cohesion.

The Strategy, which has been welcomed by the UN Committee on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination, sets out key actions and establishes a mechanism – through the Racial Equality Sub-group – to make the strategy a reality.

In a joint project with Urban Villages, the organisations represented on the Racial Equality Sub-group have been working with Cinemagic to produce a suite of films to highlight the work they do with minority ethnic communities.

Racial Equality Champions

As part of the strategy each department has an appointed Racial Equality Champion. Each Champion has the responsibility to ensure that staff have an awareness and understanding of racial equality and issues within their department's policy and operational areas.

They also communicate the ethos of the strategy to non-departmental public bodies and other service providers and encourage and/or work with them to ensure its effective implementation.

If you want to know more about Race Equality & Good Relations, check out The Executive Office website at: <https://www.executiveoffice-ni.gov.uk/articles/racial-equality>

Racial Equality Legislation Team

The most significant piece of legislation specific to race in Northern Ireland is the Race Relations (Northern Ireland) Order 1997 (The Order). The Racial Equality Strategy 2015-2025 has committed the Department to a review of the Order.

To fulfil this commitment the Racial Equality Legislation Team is reviewing the Order, identifying policy options to strengthen the legislative protections in NI.

Vulnerable Persons Relocation Scheme

The Executive has demonstrated its commitment to assisting with humanitarian issues through our participation in the Vulnerable Persons Relocation scheme.

The scheme seeks to identify those left most vulnerable by the Syrian conflict and resettle them where they can get the quality of support they need. So far 1,332 refugees have been resettled through the scheme.

Minority Ethnic Development Fund (MEDF)

The aim of the MEDF is to assist minority ethnic and local community organisations to promote good relations between people of different ethnic backgrounds. It provides support for voluntary and community organisations working with minority ethnic people and groups.

Community Relations Council

The Community Relations Council (CRC) was established in 1990 to lead and support change towards reconciliation, tolerance and mutual trust. CRC is an Arms' Length Body of TEO and a catalyst for good inter-community and inter-cultural community relations work in the region.

CRC is funded by TEO and the organisation is a key partner in the delivery of the Executives Good Relations Strategy – Together: Building a United Community.

The organisation works to identify and develop effective approaches to peace-building and reconciliation in partnership with local people, organisations, and central and local government.

North Belfast Strategic Good Relations Programme (NBSGRP)

The NBSGRP is a key good relations funding scheme delivered as part of the Executive's wider T:BUC Strategy. The NBSGRP is delivered in partnership with CRC. TEO is responsible for the strategic direction of the Programme, with CRC managing the administration and co-ordinating the evaluation of project outcomes over the course of the funding cycle.

The Programme is delivered by 11 contract holders and their partner organisations, with the key aim of improving relations between and within communities in North Belfast.

Community Relations/Cultural Diversity Small Grants

CRC, with the support of Government, has established a fund of approximately £400,000 to spend each year on community relations projects. This funding is intended to help community/voluntary groups throughout Northern Ireland develop their capacity to engage in community relations work and to enhance the community relations potential of projects they undertake.

Core funding scheme

The Core Scheme provides support for organisations which are considered of strategic importance in promoting community relations work across Northern Ireland. The scheme contributes towards salary and organisational running costs.

District Council Good Relations Programme

Programme summary

The key aims of the District Council Good Relations Programme (DCGRP) are to improve relations between and within Council areas and to support local solutions to local good relations issues.

The DCGRP is match funded – Councils provide 25% of the overall funding for the Programme. Good Relations audits are conducted periodically in all Council areas, highlighting on-going and emerging good relations issues. These issues are then addressed through the creation of outcome focused good relations Action Plans. These plans are formulated by Council Good Relations Officers (GROs) and agreed with officials from TEO.

The expertise and local knowledge provided by the GROs ensures projects are fit for purpose and lead to positive good relations outcomes for participants and the wider community as a whole.

Over the last four years, the Programme has delivered more than 500 good relations projects, impacting on over 400,000 people across all 11 District Councils.

Projects funded through the Programme focus on a wide range of good relations issues. They involve participants of all ages, and from all ethnic and social backgrounds. The common thread running through each project is a good relations outcome linked to one or more of the four key aims of the T:BUC Strategy.

From 2019/20 onwards, Councils can apply for funding over a 3 year period, subject to positive annual evaluations and availability of budget. This change provides GROs with the flexibility to design longer term interventions with more substantial good relations outcomes.

The summer scheme was an excellent way to integrate children and young people from different religious and ethnic backgrounds.

District Council Good Relations Programme: Case Study

International Children's Day 2018

Programme summary

Since 1925, June 1 has been known as International Children's Day. It is usually marked with speeches on children's rights and wellbeing, and other events involving or dedicated to children.

Lisburn & Castlereagh City Council (LCCC) Good Relations team used this event to promote social inclusion and improve community relations via the medium of a fun, youth based festival activity in a centralised, shared and open space in Lisburn City centre.

Cost

£7,000

How much did we do?

The project was delivered by the LCCC Good Relations team, in partnership with The Welcome Project Lisburn, who support minority ethnic rights in the LCCC area. The festival involved a diverse range of community groups from within the LCCC area, who were closely involved in the design and delivery of the event.

Voluntary and community organisations, public agencies and local businesses were also closely involved in the festival, and many hosted stalls at the event. These activities helped reduce potential friction and dispel myths that various communities may have of each other. The festival enriched the lives of those who participated by supporting integration through fun based activities.

Events at the festival included:

 Arts + Crafts

 Music

 Sporting activities

 Cultural learning

How well did we do it?

The exposure to different cultures enabled individuals to develop good relations and build trust and respect within our communities. The event also helped LCCC to challenge stereotyping of other communities and cultures. GRO's linked in with organisations supporting Syrian Refugees to encourage their participation in the festival.

 4,000+
in attendance

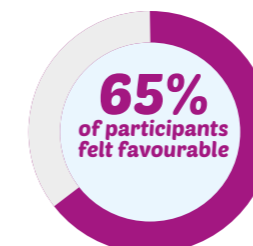

The festival received fantastic feedback from the community, Elected Members and community groups.

What difference did we make?

What did we learn?

There is huge potential to grow the event in the future – 3 year indicative funding from The Executive Office will allow the Council to approach the organisation and delivery of the festival in a more strategic manner.

Central Good Relations Fund

Programme summary

The Central Good Relations Fund (CGRF) supports constituted voluntary and community sector groups to deliver good relations projects where there is evidence of good relations need.

Since 2016, £12million has been awarded to support over 370 projects across Northern Ireland. In the last two years alone over 70,000 direct participants have been positively impacted by programmes using activities like sport, music and crafts to engage local communities.

There are two streams of funding available; project funding and small grants. For both streams, projects can claim salaries and programme costs, but these costs must be proportional to the good relations project being delivered.

Successful projects must deliver within the funding year and contribute towards the delivery of one of the T:BUC Strategy key priorities.

Project funding opens once a year for applications around November. Small Grants are open for applications of up to £1,000 throughout the funding year.

Promoting Positive Change

Project summary

Delivered by Twaddell, Ardoyne & Shankill Communities In Transition (TASCIT), The Promoting Positive Change programme sought to increase the levels of confidence of residents within and between interface communities within North Belfast. This was done by providing opportunities for residents to engage with each other, in the first instance through one off cross community events such as fun days, workshops or conferences. In the second instance we provided opportunities for residents to engage with each other in a more sustained way through the Challenging Conversations / Exploring Cultural Identities and Allegiances course.

Cost

 £60,000
Total cost

How much did we do?

9 month project.

3 Challenging Conversations Courses.

20 participants per Course.

20 hours of dialogue skills training.

20 hours of anti-sectarianism training.

How well did we do it?

average attendance over the duration of the course.

of the participants felt the programme had benefited them.

of the participants felt they were well treated during the programme.

What difference did we make?

Feedback from participants indicates that as the course progressed participants felt more confident in dealing with controversial issues and in articulating their position in a more effective and considered way. People made new contacts and friends with people they would not normally have spoken to or socialised with.

"It was my first time attending this sort of programme. I found it very positive. I have been to places I would have thought I would be scared to go to before. The group were all very respectful of people's views. I thoroughly enjoyed the whole experience".

"Great experience – first time on a cross-community course. Learned a lot".

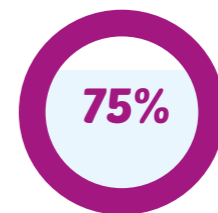

"The programme was great – I learnt so much about myself and my opinions of others – very glad I did the course was great for myself".

"I feel we held back on some topics for fear of offending others – perhaps we need more courage".

"Taking part in this course was worthwhile and will benefit everyone with their outlook towards a better future.

"I really enjoyed learning and listening to people on the course whom I normally may not have associated with. I felt it was very beneficial to me".

"I got to meet with and have discussions with people, and visit areas, I wouldn't traditionally have encountered. It has both challenged and informed me".

of participants felt they now have a better understanding of different cultural traditions and backgrounds here.

What did we learn?

We felt that by improving people's skills to engage others effectively and by considering the nature of sectarianism as it impacts on us that the participants were much more considerate of how they challenged each other. Even the most robust conversations took place in a considered way.

Looking ahead

I hope you have found this report to be an informative and useful read. The report clearly shows the outcomes achieved, and positive impact had, through the implementation of the T:BUC Strategy.

This could not have been achieved without the hard work of those across Government, our partners, participants in the various programmes and those who have helped shape good relations work. These are the people who are taking steps to make this a better place for all. I want to take the opportunity to thank you all for giving your time and energy to improve good relations.

We have not yet achieved all our aims, and the work continues apace. We are always looking at how we can work better and develop more meaningful and impactful relationships with partners, and if you have suggestions, want to get involved, or want to learn more about what we are doing, please get in touch through the relevant contact noted in this report.

Everyone has a role to play in improving good relations in Northern Ireland and we welcome all contributions, whether that is running a project, participating in a project or being a role model of good relations in your everyday life.

My ask is that we all contribute to the overall aims of the T:BUC Strategy, that we, as one, work together to build the shared, equal and prosperous community we are aiming for.
