Hamill probe told of brawl over claim for compensation
By Lesley-Anne Henry
Saturday, 21 February 2009
Ill feelings between the families of Robert Hamill and three people who were with him on the night he was attacked, became so bad they culminated in a street brawl, an inquiry heard yesterday.

Martin Hamill, a brother of the murdered 25-year-old, told the sitting at the Belfast Interpoint Centre how a rift emerged about two years after Robert’s death, in May 1997, and led to blows at one point.

Mr Hamill recalled how a fist fight erupted between himself and a man, named only as witness D who had been with Robert Hamill at the time he was beaten, after it emerged D had made a claim for compensation.

Robert Hamill had been socialising with two cousins and one of their husbands when he was set upon by a loyalist mob in the centre of Portadown on April 27, 1997. He died 10 days later in hospital from his injuries.

Speaking yesterday his brother, Robert added: “It looked to me that they were more interested in getting money than us getting justice and getting to the truth of what happened.”

In a statement for the inquiry made in 2008 Martin Hamill said: “After Robert died there was ill-feeling between my family and the family of D,E and F. He, D, would walk away from us and not speak to us.

“I assumed it was because D knew that I knew he had made a claim for his injuries and that he was ashamed of what he had done. I had no idea if E and F made a claim.”

Mr Hamill also told the inquiry that at no stage had he ever blamed witness D for starting the fight that killed his brother.

“It never was anything to do with what happened to Robert. The reason that me and D ended up fighting was they sort of withdrew from our family. They didn’t talk to us.

“I would have felt that claim would have been for mental stress, or mental injury which I didn’t believe he had.”

Also giving evidence yesterday was Lisa Hobson whose father had ended up on a life support machine after receiving a beating in Portadown. Miss Hobson, who had been 16 in 1997 alleged police did little to help her father.

“At the time my father was injured it was sort of a similar situation. “Nothing ever came of it. There was nobody ever arrested or questioned.

“As I said at the time I felt the police didn’t do enough to help him.”
Also in this section

- Nurses 'forced to put dirty sheets back on beds'
- Final images of rail track murder teen Ryan
- Jealous farmers 'hired hitman'
- Ex-City surgeon struck off for ‘barbaric’ practices
- Puppy hanging horror

Results by

- Belfast City Airport
  Daily Flights To UK & Ireland, Holiday Charters,
  Onsite Car Parking,
  Relaxed Meeting & Conference ...

- Airports & Airfields
  Seymour Dugan
  Over 500 Rugs, Huge
  Range In Stock. Multi-
  Width Extra Wide Carpets.
  Rug Gallery, Full
  Measuring ...

- Carpets & Rugs - Retail & Repair
  Myles Danker
  Certified Surveyors.
  Estate Agents, Property
  Consultants, Commercial &
  Industrial, Residential ...

- Surveyors & Valuers
  Belfast Contract
  Cleaners Ltd
  Office & Supermarket
  Cleaning, Retail /
  Industrial Cleaning. Hotel /
  Restaurant Cleaning.
  Daily ...

- Window Cleaners
  Swift Transport
  Training Services
  Learner Drivers, Motorcycle / Scooter
  Training. LGV Training.
  PCV Bus & Minibus.
  Company Fleet ...

- Motorcycle Training &
  Testing

Northern Ireland Troubles Gallery

1988 - Corporals stripped, beaten and shot dead

In Pictures: Fashion & Showbiz

What's hot on the catwalks

Most popular

1. In Pictures: Oscars 2009 Slumdog cleans up
2. In Pictures: Funny football chants
3. Man United boss Ferguson slams Wenger's transfer policy
4. In Pictures and Video: Oscars 2009 Winners
5. Oscars 2009: Kate Winslet scoops best actress
6. Dying Jade Goody's wedding seals children's future
7. Ex-City surgeon struck off for 'barbaric' practices
8. In Pictures: Miss World 2008
9. Jealous farmers 'hired hitman'
10. Man's body is found by his fiancée
Hamill probe told of brawl over claim for compensation - Local & National, News - Belfa...