Thousands stand up against return of terror - The Irish Times - Thu, Mar 12, 2009

12/03/2009
Thousands stand up against return of terror

A peace gathering in Derry. Photographs: Niall Carson/PA, Trevor McBride

Thursday, March 12, 2009

In this section

Body of constable returned to his family
Checks stepped up along Border
"Daddy, I don't want you to be shot"
Leaders hail cross-party 'unity' as rallies held
Loyalists urged to avoid 'trap' set by perpetrators
Murders denounced by Popig

GERRY MORIARTY and FIONA GARTLAND

SILENT VIGILS: THOUSANDS of people stood silently at lunchtime vigils in Belfast, Derry, Newry, Downpatrick and Lisburn yesterday to remember the murdered British soldiers Mark Quinsey and Patrick Azimkar and police officer Stephen Carroll.

They sombre crowds gathered beside brightly coloured trade union banners to make a point for peace.

The biggest turnout was in Belfast, where 5,000 people gathered along the entire front of City Hall, with the crowd stretching down into Donegall Place.

One woman, Katie, from Tandragee in Co Armagh, not far from Craigavon, explained that Constable Stephen Carroll was a friend of her family. A couple of months ago Constable Carroll booked her boyfriend for speeding, she said.
The 26-year-old architect said she was 15 when the first IRA and loyalist ceasefires were called.

“It is horrific to think that it has all come back again at a time when we did really forget,” she said. “We are here to support the peace and to take a stand.”

Her friend, Eva McDermott, also an architect, is from Dublin living in Belfast for the past 10 years and loving the city.

“This is the first time I have come face to face with anything like this and it is just horrendous. You can see by the numbers who are here today that the people who are committing these murders are not speaking for anybody but themselves,” she said.

Said Alison (26), from Co Down: “It is an awful thing to lose a family member for something that just seems so futile carried out by people who have no support. It is horrific. I would like to show support for the families, to let them know that we are thinking about them at this horrible time.”

Maeve Donnelly, a special needs teacher, travelled from Larne to the Belfast rally with her husband Danny, a nurse, and their two-year-old boy, Oliver. “We remember what it was like and we really, really don’t want to go back to that. It’s just too scary to contemplate,” she said. “It was good to see so many people. It is a very clear signal that there is no support in any quarter for the people who did this. Nobody wants a return to those days.”

In Craigavon, up to 500 people attended a prayer service just yards from where Constable Carroll was killed. The sombre crowd of men, women and children gathered in a circle beneath bare trees. Some held candles while others held hands.

Craigavon parish priest Fr Martin McLinden asked all those present to pray for Mr Carroll’s family and for peace. He asked for prayers that no one would give in to the temptation of violence.

This article appears in the print edition of the Irish Times

Latest

- 11:12 Consumer prices down 1.7 per cent in February
- 11:11 Two dead in Kildare road crash
- 11:07 HSE Board meeting to discuss funding shortfall
- 11:05 Thornton passed fit for third day of Festival
- 10:45 EU employers expect 'wave of bankruptcies' in 2009
- 10:43 Call for responsible St Patrick's weekend drinking
- 10:39 AGI hails positive drug patch trial results
- 10:19 Call for €2 increase in price of cigarettes

Popular Stories

- Most Read
- Most Emailed

- 1 Five teenagers arrested after 'brutal' attack on couples at beauty spot
- 2 Taoiseach warns of tough measures on April 7th
- 3 Brien replaces Quinn as top Irish 'Forbes' list billionaire
- 4 United stay on track, Gunners survive penalties
- 5 Desmond firm loses EUR 12m since January in Irish banks

- 1 Universities hope merger will create 30,000 jobs
- 2 Deloitte to seek 70 voluntary job cuts
- 3 Rental revival gives tenants right to choose
- 4 Five teenagers arrested after 'brutal' attack on couples at beauty spot
- 5 Brien replaces Quinn as top Irish 'Forbes' list billionaire

Your Vote

< Yes
No >

Results

Do you think countries that allow their citizens the right to bear arms are correct in doing so?

Crossword Club
Today's Interactive Irish Times Crosaire and Simplex crosswords, plus 10 years of crossword archive.

Want peace of mind?
Security in Folkestone. Try here for home security.
www.metrolinesecurity.co.uk

Sudoku »

Download and print the daily Irish Times sudoku grid

- Inside the desert kingdom
  There are signs that Saudi Arabia has begun to take the first tentative steps towards real reform

- New age for prophet of self-interest
  A hymn to individualism, extreme self-interest and laissez-faire capitalism, Ayn Rand's 1957 book 'Atlas Shrugged' is attracting a new set of followers in this age of uncertainty

- Rental revival gives tenants right to choose
  With a vast supply of newly-built apartments for rent on the market, tenants can upgrade regularly if they are prepared to shop around and haggle

- 66% off Falte Towers castle on 17 acres
  A castle run as a hotel which starred in a TV series could be within the reach of private buyers after a price cut

- The night of the iguana
  Among those fascinated by the Galápagos Islands, which Charles Darwin made famous, is an Irish scientist who conducts research at the Charles Darwin Research Station on Santa Cruz Island

Homes

- 1 The Cedars, Diamond Valley, Dargle Road
  Price: €335,000