Government to reflect carefully on Eames-Bradley, says Martin - The Irish Times - Fri, Ja...
Government to reflect carefully on Eames-Bradley, says Martin

In this section »

- Stadium at Maze ruled out

GERRY MORIARTY, Northern Editor

THE GOVERNMENT will reflect on the Eames-Bradley report on dealing with the past before deciding on the way forward, Minister for Foreign Affairs Micheál Martin said in Belfast yesterday.

Amid continuing controversy over the report and a DUP Assembly motion condemning the £12,000 proposed payment to the families of everyone killed in the Troubles, Mr Martin appealed for people to reflect carefully on the full contents of Eames-Bradley.

He said he was not surprised at some of the response to the proposed £12,000 “recognition payment” notwithstanding that a similar €15,000 payment in the Republic generated little or no controversy. “I don’t think it is surprising that families are going to react in certain ways to proposals of this kind,” he said.

“The pity though is that that one proposal has masked some of the most substantive proposals, such as the legacy commission . . . It is a pity that the rest of the report has been overshadowed by the controversy surrounding the payments issue,” said Mr Martin.

Mr Martin met community groups in Belfast, including members of the Ballymurphy group campaigning for justice for the 11 people killed by the British army in west Belfast in August 1971.

Meanwhile, the DUP has tabled a motion for Monday’s Assembly meeting condemning the Eames-Bradley proposals “which equate perpetrators of violence with innocent victims”.

British Labour MP Frank Field has also stated that he will oppose in the House of Commons any attempt to allow the £12,000 payment. Mr Field said that “under no circumstances should taxpayers’ money go to families of . . . terrorists who murdered innocent victims on the mainland or in Northern Ireland”.

This article appears in the print edition of the Irish Times
Government to reflect carefully on Eames-Bradley, says Martin - The Irish Times - Fri, Ja...  Page 3 of 5

Latest »

- 12:56 Property tax decision will be taken 'in due course'
- 12:32 Nolan joins Newcastle
- 12:11 Ireland's Govt debt now rated riskiest in Europe
- 12:07 Springsteen adds second Dublin date
- 12:03 British workers walk out in foreign jobs row
- 12:02 New car registrations fall 20% in 2008 but imports rise
- 11:55 EU says Iceland could win early membership
- 11:47 Cowen rejects comparisons between Ireland and Iceland

Popular Stories

- Most Read
- Most Emailed

- Residential property levy mooted as part of wider tax reform
- Murphy says offer to take 10% pay cut 'is right thing to do'
- Turkish PM given hero's welcome after Davos walkout
- Irish economy 'particularly vulnerable' - EU
- Octuplets mother already has six children

- Guide author believes 50 hotels may go
- Ten things you must never say to anyone with arthritis
- Irishman guilty of offences ordered to leave Australia
- Saving grace of deposit accounts
- Hypo Real Estate set to dispose of Dublin subsidiary Depfa

Your Vote »

- Yes
- No

Do you think US President Obama will be successful in reaching out to the Muslim world?

Crossword Club »

Today's Interactive Irish Times Crosaire and Simplex crosswords, plus 10 years of crossword archive.

Sudoku »

Advertisements
Download and print the daily Irish Times sudoku grid

- Saving grace of deposit accounts: Savers should take advantage of the fact that switching deposit accounts is a straightforward process, writes Caroline Madden.
- Ten things you must never say to anyone with arthritis: This week Arthritis Ireland launched a new helpline with the backing of arthritis sufferer Maeve Binchy.
- 125 years of the GAA: Celebrating 125 years of the GAA, digital edition of the official commemorative magazine.
- Fincher on the button: In The Curious Case of Benjamin Button, Brad Pitt plays a man who is born in his 80s and ages backwards.
- Fantasy Six Nations: Sign up and be in with a chance in win a holiday worth €5000 in our free Six Nations fantasy game.

ADVERTISEMENT

CLASSIFIED

Homes

No. 12 Rose Hill Avenue, 'Rose Hill', Kells Road
Price: €435,000
Bedrooms: 4
See More »

Jobs

Select your categories

Accountancy
Architecture / Design
Banking & Financial Services
Construction
Customer Service, Call Centres & Languages

Next »

Cars

A one-size-fits-all Mercedes coupé that has some hatchback genes

Find »

Dating

I am a Man Looking for a Woman Located All Only with photos: Next »

© 2009 irishtimes.com

Government to reflect carefully on Eames-Bradley, says Martin - The Irish Times - Fri, Ja...